Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, says he can't support Hardin for Governor, because Hardin doesn't stand on the platform. As Cassius announced after he got laid out in the Convention, and Hardin walked his log, that he was "out of politics," no one imagined that he would pull off his coat for Hardin, or for any one but Cassius.

An Englishman who has some spare time and is fond of figuring estimates that the sun can't hold out as a heat supplier for more than 10,000,000 years. But there is no occasion to apprehend a sudden rise in coal on this account. By that time the electricians will have it down so fine that we can get along without old Sol.

The Governor of Minnesota wants a mid-continent exposition, to be held sometime in 1897 or '98, between Minneapolis and St. Paul, and has sent an invitation to the Western Governors and Mayors of principal cities to come to a convention to be held in Minneapolis, November 30, to put the ball in motion.

The Duke of Marlborough has come to the conclusion that there is a disposition in this country to "insult" him. This is his own fault. If he wore a tag announcing that he was not only a "juke," but the prospective son-in-law of an American millionaire, they might give him a wider swath.

Loss in the Virginia Peanut Crop.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette gives the following extracts from the reports made by correspondents of a firm in Cincinnati in regard to the Virginia peanut crop, now being gathered: The first writes, September 30th: "It's dry as powder and the crop's gone, and I expect to see peanuts 5c." Another, on October 8th: "The crop will be varied; some fine, some only fair and mixed with blasted nuts. The crop will be near three-quarters of the average." Another, October 12th: "I have been out in the country several days, and after careful investigation am satisfied that a conservative estimate will not be over 50 per cent. to 60 per cent. of last year's crop, and the nuts will be light and chaffy."

A Sore Bereavement.

The sympathy of the community will be extended to the family of Mr. N. H. — The "bull" yearlings are now engaged in a frantic effort to pull themselves together, but they are so badly torn up that it takes about sixteen of 'em to get up one snort.

—The regular services at the Seamen's Bethel will be conducted by Rev. A. D. McClure at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Seamen and rivermen specially invited. All welcome.

— For the Rockingham county Fair, at Reidsville, N. C., the C, F. & Y. V. R. R. will sell tickets at the rate of one first-class fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale October 26 to November 1st. Rate from Wilmington, $6 60; Fayetteville, $3.90; Maxton, $5.10.

— There has been a tremendous drop in the cotton receipts at this port during the past few days. What is the matter? Are the farmers holding their cotton for higher prices, or are the exporters waiting for a decline? It must be the former, we are led to believe.

All on Account of the Drought.

New River oysters in market yesterday, and for some days past, were small and shrivelled, and not at all like the large plump bivalves that usually come to Wilmington from Onslow county; but the price remains the same—one dollar per gallon. Vendors said the dejected appearance of the oysters was owing to the drought.

Fresh water fishermen from Black river had a boat load of perch at Market dock yesterday. They said the fish in the small streams are ravenous and bite at the bare hook almost. All on account of the drought cutting off their food supply.

City Court.

Mayor Fishblate presided at the session of the City Court yesterday.

Elvin Artis, colored, drunk and disorderly, was fined five dollars.

Enoch Height, a small colored boy, arrested for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk of South Front street, near the Market house, was discharged with a reprimand only, on account of his age, about nine years.

Martin Dixon, a white man arrested on suspicion, was discharged for want of evidence against him, but was ordered to leave the city by Saturday night, which he promised to do.

Cotton Notes.

Receipts here yesterday 823 bales; same day last year 3,189. Receipts for the week ended yesterday, 9,977 bales; same week last year, 19,898. Receipts September 1st, 1894, 64,160 bales; for same time last year, 84 224.

The Maxton Fair.

The pushing Secretary of the Border Exposition has secured some of the attractions of the Raleigh Fair for the Maxton Fair, to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Among these is "Noah's Ark," the great show of trained animals, which, of itself, will be worth a trip to the Fair. Last, but not least, Augustus Adolphus McNair, with his melodious guitair, will be right there, and will sing "The Cat Came Back."

Horse Stolen.

A medium-size bay horse, with white feet and blaze face, is reported to have been stolen Thursday night last from the stable of Mr. W. F. Alexander on Middle Sound, about eight miles from Wilmington. The horse was traced to this city and is supposed to have crossed the river at the Market street ferry, as an animal of the description given above, driven to a road cart, was taken across at six o'clock a. m.

BOHAD OF ALDERMEN.

A Called Meeting Held Last Night—Various Matters Discussed and Disposed Of.

The Board of Aldermen met last night in called session, Mayor Fishblate, Aldermen Maunder, Springer, Northrop, Hicks, Harriss, Cameron, VonGlahn, Gore and Walker were present.

Alderman Northrop, of the Market Committee, reported that stalls had been rented.

Alderman Gore, of the Light Committee, reported that complaints had been made of bad management in furnishing lights, but no attention had been paid to them.

Alderman Cameron said he would like to eave the lamps on Dry Pond whitewashed, so people would not run into them at night.

Alderman Northrop moved that a gas light be placed in front of the First Presbyterian Church, and Alderman Harriss moved that one be placed on Third and Church streets. Carried.

Alderman Walker moved that an oil lamp be placed on Fifth and Hanover streets. Carried.

Alderman Harriss, of the Sanitary Committee, reported progress; and for the Streets and Wharves Committee, that extensive improvements on Front, and on Nun between Third and Front streets, were being made, and that on account of the bad condition of Sixth street bridge they had closed it.

Alderman Springer asked about the appropriations, and spoke in favor of street improvement on Third street, to begin at Red Cross and go toward Castle, instead of beginning at Castle and going toward Red Cross, and made a motion to that effect.

Aldermen Northrop, Harriss, Cameron and Von Glahn spoke in favor of their wards.

Alderman Springer said the Second Ward should have something, as it had had nothing done for several years.

The vote resulted as follows: Ayes—Springer, Maunder, Gore and VonGlahn. Noes—Northrop, Hicks, Harriss, Cameron and Walker. Lost—5 to 4.

Alderman Springer asked that the Street and Wharves Committee only shell one side of Third street, so as to carry the work through to Red Cross, which was assured him.

Upon motion of Alderman Walker, a brick sidewalk will be placed in front of Ebenezer Baptist Church on Seventh and Orange streets.

Alderman VonGlahn, of the Fire Committee, reported the bad condition of the Cape Fear Engine Company's house, and recommended that something be done, as it was liable to fall down in a storm. The committee intend to build a house in the Fifth Ward with the first available funds.

Alderman Maunder, of the Hospital Committee, reported everything in this department in first class order.

Alderman Hicks, of the Ordinance Committee, said he had several ordinances to offer, all which were passed, as follows:

Ordinance compelling cyclists to have lights attached to bicycles when riding between dark and sunrise. Fine for violation $5 or ten days' imprisonment.

To annul the ordinance not allowing the Chief of the Fire Department to go faster than a trot, and allow him to go as fast as practicable, as it was necessary, and in case of a false alarm would save reels and engines.

In the matter of erection of two wooden buildings on Water and Mulberry streets, within the fire limits, by Charles Wessell and J. M. Forshee, neither having obtained legal permission, the Chief of Police was directed to enforce the ordinance.

On motion, the Chief of Police was instructed to have the house on Dock street, at the corner of Front, built by peddlers, removed at once.

The Streets and Wharves Committee reported progress in regard to the trouble between the city and the Street Railway Company in the matter of wires coming in contact with the fire-alarm wires and burning out boxes.

Alderman Springer handed in a petition signed by a number of residents on Mulberry street, asking that the name of the street be changed to Grace street.

Mr. Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., who was present, was granted permission to speak, and said this name, Mulberry, had been in use for over 160 years and it would effect titles and cause considerable disorder if it was changed to "Grace," and that the name of a street should never be changed.

Alderman Maunder said he was a property owner on Mulberry street and saw no reason why the name should not be changed, and called for the question, which passed.

Alderman Harriss offered an ordinance prohibiting the sale of second-hand clothing in this city, which was passed as recommended by the Sanitary Committee.

Col. Walker Taylor appeared before the Board, asking that the city pay a bill of $38 made in the entertainment of the Amphitrite officers who visited the city last Summer. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Springer then gave Treasurer Rice a bill which had been handed him by Mr. M. Cronly with letter attached, showing that it had cost him $279 to have clerks fix up the tax levy books, not counting his work, and that the lowest bidder was $375 to do this work. The cause of this trouble was the delay in getting figures, &c., and asking them for proper compensation. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee to report back to the Board.

Messrs. Powell & Co's long petition was read, asking for the privilege to remain in Front street market as a stallholder and to build or open a butcher's establishment between Front and Third streets and between Dock and Chesnut streets, signed by a large number of citizens and pointing facts why they should be allowed to do this. Another petition with prominent business men and a majority of the doctors, was also read, followed by a counteracting petition from the butchers and their friends. Nearly all the butchers were present, and Alderman Harriss favoring allowing Powell & Co., or the Armour Packing Co., to open a place of business, and Aldermen Hicks, Springer, Von Glahn and Cameron bitterly opposing it.

Messrs. H. McClammy and Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., appeared in behalf of Powell & Co., making strong arguments, who called on Dr. Burbank to give statement of physicians and his own opinion as to the filthy condition and danger of disease germs which emenated in a market house like Wilmington's.

Mr. E. K. Bryan replied, and a vote was taken on Mr. Springer's motion that the petition not be granted, which was carried by a vote of 8 to 1, Alderman Harriss voting no.

Mr. Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., called attention to fixing up the road which leads to Harnett township, which was referred to the Streets and Wharves Committee.

Alderman Northrop called the Board's attention to a matter which had been carried over some time—that of Mrs. Darby's property which had been damaged by the Street Railway Company cutting down trees to run its track.

City Attorney Sutton gave his opinion that the city was responsible and the railroad company was liable to the city. The Board ordered that $500 be appropriated to repair damages, and the street railway be notified to fix it, or the city would charge the same.

Mr. Wm. Sheehan's communication was read, stating that the Chief of Police had rented his horse and buggy to capture an escaped criminal and that the horse was over driven and left in the country. The animal cost $99, and he was now only offered $10 for him on account of the hard driving foundering him, and he made a claim against the city for $40. Referred to the Finance Committee.

Upon motion of Alderman VonGlahn, the Superintendent of the Fire Alarm was ordered to send in monthly reports.

Alderman Northrop resigned the position of chairman of the Market Committee.

The Board at 11.45 o'clock adjourned.

RALEIGH NEWS BUDGET.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT THE STATE FAIR.

Children's Day—Street Car Collision—Crusade Against Dancers on the Midway—Populists and the Fusion Question—Buck Kitchin's Case in the Superior Court—The Railroad Commission to Regulate Charges of Telephone Exchanges.

[Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 25.

The Kitchen case will come up in the Superior Court to-day. Court has not been in session for the past few days. Fair week seems to have demoralized it.

Editor Ayer tells me that in a few days it will be known whether the Populists favor fusion both on the State and also the electoral ticket. Mr. Ayer says their plan of action is to write to every county chairman, who in turn writes to every township chairman. The township chairmen are supposed to consult the people of their vicinity. In this way the Populists say they will find out how their people stand. This is one of the things that was agreed upon at the Executive Committee's meeting.

The crusade against the "Hootchey-Kootchey" dancers on the Midway began last night at the meeting of the Agricultural Society, but not until they had reaped a harvest from the "innocent gulls." Mr. W. B. Broughton was the first man to wage war. It was decided to exclude the dancing women to-day.

This is Children's day at the Fair and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand. Yesterday the crowd was just immense. The weather was threatening this morning, but a nice little sprinkle of rain came which just laid the dust.

Mr. L. Banks Holt and Col. John S. Cunningham declined the nominations for presidency of the society at the meeting last evening.

The trotting race for the 2.25 class is undecided. Clipper, Mosquito and Kitty B each won two heats. The race will be completed to-day.

Two crowded electric cars collided yesterday and about 150 people came together. There was a slight crash, but no damage.

Mrs. Teague, of Burlington, broke her arm in jumping from the car. Timely forethought on the part of the motormen saved many lives.

It is reported, but not generally believed, that Senator E. S. Abell, of Johnston county, has joined the Populists.

The Railroad Commission has called on all the telephone exchanges in the State requesting their rates for the rental of 'phones. They take this step with a view of equalizing the rates and reducing the same.

[Special Star Telegram.]

Kitchen's case, contesting for the Penitentiary directorship, occupied to-day's session of the court. Senator Dowd, of Mecklenburg, was the only witness examined. He testified that to the best of his knowledge no bills were ratified at the morning session the day the bill is said to have passed. Much of the day was occupied by counsel arguing law technicalities.

The office of local freight agent has been created by the Southern Railway. John B. Munson, former chief clerk to Col. Turk, has been appointed to the position, with headquarters here.

One Cent a Word.

Hereafter advertisements to go in our "Business Locals" department will be charged one cent per word for each insertion; but no advertisement, however short, will be taken for less than 20 cents.

This is a reduction from former rates and it is also a convenience to advertisers, who can calculate the exact cost of their advertisements, which must be paid for always in advance.

THE COTTON OUTLOOK.

LIQUIDATION OF "LONG" COTTON PLACES THE MARKET IN A BETTER POSITION.

Reports of the Yield Are as Discouraging as Ever—The Crop May Now be Expected to Move Into the Channels of Consumption Freely.

When the cotton market closed yesterday afternoon, says the Augusta Chronicle of the 28d, something like normal conditions had been restored. There was a general feeling that the flurry was over, and that the enormous liquidation resulting from the protracted bull campaign of the past few months had been completed. No one had the faintest idea to what extent the speculation in cotton had extended until the flurry brought about the sudden unloading of the "long" cotton accumulated during the upward movement. The extent of the liquidation surpassed all past records, it being safe to say that the cotton trade never before experienced two such days of excitement as Saturday and Monday.

A very favorable feature of yesterday's market was the fact that Liverpool, notwithstanding frequent and sharp fluctuations, finally closed within a few points of the figures current on the preceding day. This appears to indicate that Liverpool is disposed to accept present prices as low enough, and, as the spot sales in that market increased to 10,000 bales, spinners are apparently willing to go on at the present basis.

The vast weight of "long" cotton having been liquidated, the market is now in a better position to feel the full influence of the actual statistical position. Notwithstanding the collapse of the bull movement, reports from the interior respecting the yield of the crop continue as discouraging as ever, and the movement is also beginning to bear out the short crop predictions. The present fine weather certainly affords every inducement to producers to ship their cotton, and although prices have declined three-fourths of a cent per pound from the high level of a week ago, current prices still offer a good profit to the producer.

Now that the speculative excitement has subsided, the work of marketing the crop will no doubt go forward in earnest. The late flurry is not likely to have done any material damage to business in the South, particularly as the ultimate result is not likely to be the maintenance of a much more stable and permanent range of prices, and, assuming that the reaction of yesterday means a return to normal values, that range of values will still be one which insures a good profit to cotton producers, and through them to the merchants of the South.

When one reflects that the recent high price for cotton was reached after a steady advance of more than 4c per pound, lasting through seven months, it is not surprising that the advance should have culminated in just such a way as it did. All the people who had bought cotton had to liquidate at one time or another, and having all determined to sell out at the same time, the extraordinary experience of the past few days was but the natural result. The storm has thoroughly cleared the atmosphere, however, and, no longer hampered with a top-heavy bull interest, the crop may be expected to move into channels of consumption freely. Spinners must have made up their minds that they will not be able to purchase cotton cheap this season, and, as the recent panic has produced about all of the reaction that is to be expected, they will now no doubt come into the market freely.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 25, 1895

THE VITAL ISSUE.

Disguise it as some of the political leaders may desire and endeavor to do, the great question before the American people to day is the money question. It is a question, too, in which not only the people of the United States are concerned, but the people of the civilized world, for there is not a country in the world where silver was demonetized which has not suffered and is not suffering by it. As the protective tariff was for years, for nearly a generation, a contest between the many and the few, in which the many were deluded into supporting a policy detrimental to them and beneficial to the few only, so the money question is really a question between the many and the few, in which the effort is being made to delude the many into the support of financial systems which will be not only detrimental but ruinous to them and accrue to the benefit of the few only who control the money of the world.

The nearer we get to the absolute gold standard the less the volume of money becomes, and the easier it is for the money monarchs to control the money supply. There are about $3,000,000,000 of gold coin in the world, the most of which is locked up in Government and bank vaults, not counting what may be hoarded and hidden by individuals. The gold that is supposed to be available for business transactions could be cornered and controlled inside of forty-eight hours by less than a half dozen men. We had an illustration of this when the Secretary of the Treasury issued the bonds for the last $50,000,000 gold loan. He found the gold so hard to get that he had to put himself in the hands of a syndicate and pay it a large bonus to do what this Government of 65,000,000 of people, with its $65,000,000,000 of alleged wealth couldn't do, that is, raise $50,000,000 worth of gold. It is said that the Rothschilds could if they so determined control one half the gold in the world. The Rothschilds and less than a dozen men could practically control it all and have both the Governments of Christendom and the commerce of the world in their power.

According to statistics the wealth of nations is increasing and the fortunes of the rich are growing rapidly, but there is not a country in the world where silver has been demonetized that there is not complaint of suffering among the masses and in which the followers of industrial callings are not suffering from the effects of that demonetization. Of all these countries France suffers the least, because France is an exceptional nation, which has managed her financial methods with a wisdom made the more conspicious by the lack of it in other nations. There is no financial agitation in France, for there is no need of it. There the people have gold, silver and paper, and the parity between them is preserved because neither the people nor the Government discriminates against either, nor do they pull one down to add to the value of the other.

With the people of this country it is not simply whether silver shall be coined at a ratio of 16 to 1, more or less, but whether silver shall continue to be a part of our money or whether it shall be relegated to the "junk" pile and gold only remain. That is really the issue, for that is the issue that the gold monometallists are forcing upon the people. They would cease the coinage of silver, they would retire the Government paper money, and put us absolutely on a gold basis, preserving the subsidiary only silvery because it is necessary and to keep up the semblance of bimetallism.

Talk about overproduction may be well enough in its way; there doubtless has been overproduction of some things estimated by the world's capacity to buy, but the overproduction has not extended to all the products of the earth nor has it been annual or universal. The depreciation in prices which began twenty-odd years ago cannot be accounted for on the theory of overproduction alone. There has been no overproduction of land, and yet in some of the States of this Union, and some of the apparently most prosperous States, too, there has been within the past ten years a decline of from 25 to 50 per cent. in the selling price of farming lands. It is so in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas and other States, including in the list some of the best agricultural States in the country, and some with the largest cities, best markets, and good transportation facilities both by land and water. In such States if there be prosperity the farmer should certainly enjoy a portion of it and his lands instead of being at a discount ought to be in demand.

Under these circumstances is it strange that there is a demand for more money and for the restoration of the full money function to silver? Is it strange that this sentiment should be overwhelmingly predominant among the farmers who are suffering so much from the demonetization of silver? Depreciated land, depreciated farm products year after year with little or no prospect of improvement are not calculated to inspire enthusiasm among the masses, and especially among the farmers, for the gold system on which our finances have been run since the conspiracy against silver succeeded.

MINOR MENTION.

England seems to be feeling her way in the Venezuela business, and endeavoring to enlist the co operation of other European powers before she sends that so-called ultimatum to the Venezuelan Government. There is more or less British bluster, of course, but that is British style, and doesn't amount to much. The men who manage affairs over there have come to understand that in the American interpretation the Monroe doctrine does really mean something, and that the sentiment of the people of this country is for standing by it according to our and not English construction. There is a good deal of activity in completing our war vessels under way, and the bringing of our war ships within easy reach, where they could be concentrated on short notice at the desired points is suggestive to Englishmen who keep their eye on American movements and understand American sentiment, and they have about come to the conclusion that this is not all mere parade. The disputed territory on the borders of Venezuela embraces some thirty odd thousand square miles, but aside from its value as an agricultural and mineral region, the British claimant has extended the line so as to embrace the mouth of the Orinoco river, one of the most important rivers in that region, navigable for four hundred miles and the recipient of numerous navigable tributaries. This makes its possession a matter of vast importance both from a military and commercial standpoint. Venezuela contains a population of a little over 2,000,000, and if her people are as spirited as they are represented to be they will not surrender the territory to Great Britain or any power without a determined struggle, especially when there is good reason to expect pretty strong backing. If she can put an army of 100,000 men in the field, as it is said she can, with the co-operation of U. S. warships to protect her sea ports, she could make the proceedings very animated and interesting for John Bull. And then there are complications in the far East and in Africa that would make England go very slow in putting her foot in deep in Venezuela.

Tin-making in this country is one of the much cherished industries which was, according to the protectionists to be ruined by the reduction in the tariff. How it has been ruined is shown by the following, gathered from the report of Special Treasury Agent Ayer, covering the industry in the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895 :

"The facts presented show a marked increase in the number of mills for rolling the steel sheets, or "black plates," which form the body of commercial and terne plates, terne plates being plates which are coated with a mixture of tin and lead, and which are generally used for roofing purposes.

"The largely increased consumption of steel sheets from American rolling mills indicates not only the accelerated growth of this branch of the industry, but an actual preference for American rolled sheets, both for coating and for the uses to which the finished plates are applied.

"The production of commercial tin and terne plates showed an increase of 39 per cent., and of the production there was 21 per cent increase in the amount made from sheets rolled in the United States.

"There was an increase of 31,258,467 pounds in the quantity of sheets used of American manufacture, and 20 per cent. increase in the number of firms producing.

"The quantity of American sheet iron and steel made by stamping of other manufacturing firms into articles and wares which were afterward tinned was increased by 17,077 pounds.

"There was an increase of 78 in the number of rolling mills for rolling black plates, making the total 144."

The gathering of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association at Atlanta would be at any time an event of importance, but is especially so at this time when there is such a fine opportunity to see not only what the South is doing in the cotton manufacturing industry but in other industries as well. They will there also see centered some of the many resources of this section, and learn much that it would ordinarily take weeks of travel and observation to learn. In addition to this they will there meet many of the representative men and manufacturers of the South. There are about two hundred and forty New England manufacturers in the party and the presumption is that in the number are many of the leading spirits of that industry in New England who have come South not on a mere frolic but to see the South's display of her resources and efforts, and to learn something more than they knew about this part of the country. It is reasonable to suppose that the interest that New England manufacturers have lately shown in the South as a cotton manufacturing section will be stimulated by this visit and it is not unlikely that it will lead to some important investments.

Antarctica is the name they propose to give the country inside of the belt of ice surrounding the South Pole. It is estimated that there are 4,000,000 of square miles and volcanoes 15,000 feet high. The Australians are taking a good deal of interest in explorations in that region. Thus far while they have some rocks that have been picked up there are no indications of gold. If there were reason to believe there was gold there the Britons would get through those ice barriers or bust.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Senator Sherman seems to have set all the managing statesmen of the Republican party into a fever of denial. The old fellow has touched a great many sore places with the point of his pen.—Phil. Record, Dem.

—— Mrs. Rover, the famous cook and lecturer, says that a soft boiled egg, eaten by a patient recovering from typhoid fever, will bring on a relapse every time. A friend of ours, who has a specific for cancer, zymotic fevers, and other ills that flesh is heir to, says that cinnamon tea is the best curative for typhoid fever. The very best thing is to avoid that fever by not partaking of impure milk, water or ice. But, if you get it, you might try cinnamon tea. It cannot hurt you and may save your life.—Augusta Chronicle, Dem.

—— As the British and the Venezuelans are thus left glaring defiance at each other on the Cuyuni river, with the assured certainty that the weaker is going to be punished, whether justly or simply because he is the weaker, the American people are beginning to ask each other what has become of the "Monroe doctrine," and whether the present United States government is doing, or is going to do, anything to have its principle recognized and enforced. If the Monroe doctrine be not enforced now the American people and the government of the United States should cease talking about it.—New Orleans Times, Dem.

TWINKLINGS.

— A beggar stopped a lady on the steps of a church. "Kind lady, have you not a pair of old shoes to give me?"

"No, I have not; besides, those you are now wearing seem to be brand new.

"That's just it, ma'am—they spoil my business."—La Reforma.

— He—But your father isn't literary and doesn't know a good thing when he sees it.

She—Just the same, he can write forty checks that will be accepted and you can't write one. The bank knows a good thing when it sees it even if he doesn't.—Detroit Free Press.

— "These cut prices in medicine are a great comfort to me," remarked old Mrs. Gummey, "I never felt as though I could really afford to be sick as long as I had to pay a whole dollar for a single bottle of patent medicine; now that I can get them for 78 cents it makes a big difference."—Harper's Bazar.

— Mr. Younghubbe—Don't you think, my dear, that you cook twice as much as we need?

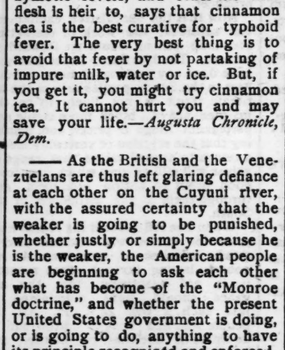
Mrs. Younghubbe (artlessly)—I did it on purpose, darling. I want to try some of those "Hints for Housekeepers—How to Make Dainty Dishes from What Was Left over from Yesterday."—Detroit Sun.

—Mrs. Slimson (severely)—"While this lady complains that you have been fighting with her little boy, and wants you to promise never to do so again."

Willie (to lady)—You needn't be afraid, ma'am. Your boy will keep out of my way after this."—Harper's Bazar.

From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.



NO DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless, as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Columbus News: We are pained to chronicle the death of Mr. J. W. Lynn, which occured at her home near here Monday evening.

— Fayetteville Observer. Mrs. Mary Ann Hardie, daughter of the late Sheriff Hardie, died at her residence on Ramsey street in this city early on Friday morning last.

—Newbern Journal: Mrs. Edward Rawls, of Arapahoe, was taken sick Saturday, October 19th, and died in ten minutes after the attack began. Mr. Rawl's mother died a few weeks ago; his infant child died only three weeks ago, and now his wife dies

— Salisbury World: Speaking of big things, Mr. Rufus Rogers, living near China Grove, has raised the biggest sweet potato of the season. It measured 24 by 27 inches and weighed ten pounds and one ounce.

— Raleigh Press-Visitor: In jail to-day rests John Bruce, a colored man who works at the Southern freight depot. He is held without bail on the charge of most brutally assaulting Mary Howell, also colored. The woman was struck in the face with some weapon, yet unknown, and so badly injured that one of her eyes had to be removed; it is feared that she may also lose the other eye.

— Monroe Enquirer: Mr. Ellison Broom, of Goose Creek township, has just gathered his thirty-first crop made with a mule that has lived to the ripe old age of forty-one years. —— The corn crop is now being gathered, and while the crop was damaged to some extent by the drought, there will be an abundant corn crop in Union county. There is a great deal of old corn in the county now, more than ever has been at this season in its history. Farmers say that corn is unusually sound. It is a rare thing to find a rotten ear.

— Monroe Journal: There is evidently no inclination among farmers to sell cotton for less than 9 cents. There has been scarcely any on the market this week. —— We are informed that Mr. A. J. Stack, of Buford township, has what must be the brag cow of the county, it giving six gallons of milk per day, from which two pounds of butter are made daily. —— Forest fires have been very dangerous during the excessive dry weather. Several have caught from the railroad. There was one Sunday on the south side of the G., C. & N., about four miles from town. Extensive fires in Goose Creek township destroyed several hundred acres of woodland. It originated from the fire of 'possum hunters.

NOVEL READING.

An Excessive Amount of It Is Declared to Militate Against Marriage.

A writer in a monthly review, discussing Mr. Balfour's "Foundations of Belief," takes occasion to say that solid books, dealing with the great problems of mind and morals, are no longer read except by a few specialists. That an exclusive diet of novel reading is extremely debilitating is proved by one series of facts which are observable in every part of the civilized world. Men and women among the reading classes no longer marry in anything like such numbers as they formerly did, and the reason is that they have no pluck in them to face lives of Spartan simplicity on limited incomes.

The result is disastrous to women, inasmuch as it prevents many of them ever marrying at all. For if a woman does not marry when she is young very few men care to marry her when she is middle aged. Men marry in middle life, but they do not marry women of their own age. They marry young women. The physiological moral is that it would be vastly better for both men and women to read novels for recreation only, and when at work to read solid books which really exercise and develop the brain. In practice the result of this would be that both men and women would have better and stronger brains. They would marry earlier and with more courage. They would face the world more hopefully and successfully, and they would become the parents of wholesomer, healthier, happier and more capable children.—English Paper.

By Different Names.

One of the foreign diplomats in Washington, who is seldom called by his right name, is Senor Antonio Lazo-Arriaga. He is generally referred to as Minister Arriaga, which is his mother's name, his own name being Antonio Lazo. "In Central America," he says in explaining the matter, "where a son bears his father's Christian name he adds his mother's family name, in order that a proper distinction may be observed between his sire and himself. For example: My father's name is Antonio Lazo. I also was named Antonio, and in order that I should not be confounded with my father I added my mother's family name, which is Arriaga. My eldest son is also named Antonio, and in order that he may be distinguished from his grandfather and myself, he will add his mother's—that is, my wife's—family name, which is Morales. Thus the three generations in my family, all Lazos, will be Antonio Lazo, Antonio Lazo-Arriaga and Antonio Lazo - Morales."—New York Tribune.

Information From a Man.

The bloomer dress is a pair of trousers, very baggy at the knees, abnormally full at the pistol pockets and considerably full where you strike a match.

The garment is cut decollete at the south end and the bottoms tied around the ankles or knees to keep the mice out.

You can't put it over your head like you do your shirt, nor around you like a corset, but you must sit on the floor and pull it on just as you do your stockings, one foot at a time in each compartment.

You can easily tell the right side to have in front by the buttons on the neckband.—Rehoboth Herald.

"SEVEN BELLS."

It was dismal enough to be on the graveyard shift, he thought, without being put to drill single handed in the somber depths of "dead work." The shift had been changed that day, and it shrugged its 60 shoulders in sympathetic measure when the boss took him into the clammy quiet of the deserted drift.

Sixty staring eyes watched the rising and the falling of the twin lights, lost one moment behind the body of the boss or the miner, then again that wan glow ebbing upon the murky walls a strange yellow tide. The footfalls came back to the group like muffled hammer taps, not a sharp, decided rap like that of steel eating its powder tomb into the rock, but a prolonged boom! boom! multiplied into counter echoes until it reached 60 ears as the dull clamor of waves in a sea cave. A distant angle shut off the pallid lights. For a moment the ebbing tide was reflected upon the walls behind; then darkness. No one of the shift spoke. The dripping moisture spattered loudly about them.

"Eleven twenty," said a hollow voice.

"Long time before tally," some one replied.

"Tell Pippin we've started for the No. 6 breast."

Several of the men moved on down the incline. Their lights were brighter and moved more briskly than those just missed in the vague atmosphere of the deserted drift. The tones of the boys came back in broken syllables and now and then a gibing laugh. The resonant baritone of one was giving to the gnome echoes:

Maid of Athens, ere we part,
Give, oh, give me back my heart!

My heart—heart—art—was dashed wildly from wall to wall, shrinking until it was mere smothered merriment to the 20 ears that listened for the shift boss to put them at their work.

Several pipes were lighted, bringing into life from the uncertain candle glow strong, interesting faces and stealing away the suspicions of ancient gloom that had clothed the indistinct figures just before.

"Going to shake your hoof tomorrow night, Bill?"

"I'm hoodooed on that if I don't lay off," was the reply.

"This 'ere graveyard deal is a terror," interrupted a deep bass.

"Tell the boss I got cold and went on into the hole," called a gawky being, detaching itself from the crowd and beginning the descent. "Might as well keep from freezing to death."

"Say, Mike, tell Pip we quiet shift early."

"Say, Mike, tell the old man Christmas' coming."

"Say, Mike, tell Pip that the breast of No. 2 ain't going into the mountain by itself."

"Say, Mike, tell Pip them Cousin Jacks down there'll do him if he don't git a move on."

"Say, Mike, tell the old man not to git playing too high a hand with that bad air in the old drift."

Every message from the chain of fire dots was followed by peals of laughter which became a mass of underground jargon, disturbed now and then by a weird scream from below.

The big Irish "trammer" was alone. The very earth was slumbering now. Not a human inkling came from the silent drifts.

The patter of the underground rain was ceaseless, small drops and larger ones keeping perfect harmony in their monotonous music.

The big trammer's watch joined the miserere like a leader with remorseless baton, measuring off the time of the wild orchestration until eternity. Through infinite ages of rock there came, with a shock, the faint regular tap of the hammer, like the chiseling of the surgeon's instruments into poor, bruised bones. It put the teeth upon edge and sent a shudder through the solitary trammer. All of this maddening regularity of sound was like the pulse throb of creation.

The trammer could not shake off the oppression borne in upon him by the joke of the last man, "Tell the boss not to git playing too high a hand with that bad air in the old drift."

The "creeps" came from the stolid face of the hanging wall and seized him until he shivered. Drops stood out upon his forehead like those upon the wall against which he leaned, dizzy and trembling.

"Something's got me," he whispered hoarsely, and the sound rasped in the stope above and fell about him again in an inhuman sigh. There was something ghastly in this feeling. He could only listen, listen, motionless, helpless. A vague jar shook the "workings" almost imperceptibly, the strained car caught a solemn boom and some seconds later a belch of foul air from the deserted drift puffed out his light, startling him from his stifling lethargy. Hurriedly lighting the candle, he jerked out his watch.

Twelve fifty. The boss had been absent an hour in the deserted drift. The blast—the air filled with lurking death that had come hundreds of feet to him—the horror that awaited them at the breast of the dead work. It all dazed him like the beautiful sun when he came out of earth into the dawn. He sprang to the bell rope, and swaying his whole weight upon it counted the pulls which rang out seven loud peals in the engine room upon the surface.

Seven bells, the most terrible warning in all the sharp category of mine signals. Harsh, insistent they clanged, shrill and quivering were the seven shrieks from the tally whistle, alarming the camp.

The graveyard shift found the mine boss half way up the deserted drift with the body of the miner, which he had carried to his end.—Colorado Woman.

House Inscriptions.

A few years ago there was discovered on an old half timbered house in Tewkesbury, hidden by more recent plastering, a very curious inscription painted in red, which is certainly unique: "Three things pleaseth both God and man—concord between brethren, amity between neighbors, and a man and his wife that agreeth well together. Four things hurt much the life of man—tears, smoke, wind and, the worst of all, to see his friends unlucky and his foes happy. These five things are rare seen—a fair young woman without a lover, a young man without mirth, an old usurer without money, any great fair without thieves, and a fair horn without musick." These old house inscriptions might be extended, the custom of appending such mural mottoes having been extensively kept up on the continent, but only too many of them lose their point when translated.—London Standard.

Do You make doughnuts this way?

Sift 1 quart of flour, 1 salt spoonful salt, 1 salt-spoonful ground nutmeg or cinnamon, 3 rounding teaspoonfuls baking powder together. Beat 2 eggs; add 1 cup sugar, 1 cup milk 1 tea spoonful melted Cottolene. Stir these into the flour, roll and cut into shape. Have kettle ¾ full of Cottolene—set just the right heat—and fry the doughnuts in it for 3 minutes.

For frying, Cottolene must be hot, but don't let it get hot enough to smoke or it will be burned and spoiled. To find if it is hot enough, test it by throwing into it a single drop of water. When at just the heat, the water will pop. Get the genuine.

The Cottolene trade-marks are "Cottolene" and a steer's head in cotton-plant wreath.

Novel Railroad Track.

A novel kind of street railroad track has been constructed for one of the lines in San Francisco. Ties, as described in The Engineer, are laid after the manner of ordinary work and earth and fine broken stone rammed in between until flush with their tops. The rail is a Z rail, but inclined inward in the same way as a slot rail, and about every six or eight feet a bar is bolted to the rails to preserve the gauge. Upon the top of the ties and the surface formed by the rammed earth are laid five inches of concrete brought to a smooth, true curve on top, with a crown of about an inch, and upon this is laid an inch of sod, and then the paving blocks are put in, the latter being nearly cubical and soaked in hot coal tar. The blocks on the inside next the rail are shaped to permit the flange of the wheel to travel, and all the blocks are so laid as to present no wide joints, the appearance at a little distance being that of an asphaltum pavement. Vehicles can cross the track at any angle without in any degree twisting or wrenching the wheels.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in mys tore I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at R. R. Bellamy's Drug Store.

Infants and Children.

MOTHERS

Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poison?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher? That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well These Things are worth knowing. They are facts.

accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine.

The Lumberman needs it in case of accident.

The Housewife needs it for general family use.

The Canaler needs it for his teams and his men.

The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench.

The Miner needs it in case of emergency.

The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it.

The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard.

The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply afloat and ashore.

The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and safest reliance.

The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble.

The Railroad man needs it and will need it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once.

Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy.

Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Its immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages.

Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

WHEN MABEL SMILES.

When Mabel smiles, my heart beats high,
A softer azure tints the sky,
And zephyrs sweet flit laughing by,
With strains unheard before,
While I look in her peerless eyes
And envy not the rich and wise
Nor heavenward gaze with wistful sighs,
For heaven can yield no more.

When Mabel frowns, the world is drear,
Each trembling dewdrop seems a tear,
The roses droop in grief and fear
And cease to breathe perfume.
Alas, for me, a mournful swain,
The dismal moments drag in pain,
For who could bear to meet disdain
From lips so full of bloom?

When Mabel smiles, my heart is proud,
When Mabel frowns, my heart is bowed,
But be she dark or sunny browed
She reigns my bosom's queen;
And well she knows who rules in state,
That joy and pain must alternate,
And so fair Mabel hides my fate,
A smile and frown between.

—Samuel Minturn Peck in Life.

NEWTON'S GREAT KILLING.

Of the Thirteen Slain That Night Nine Fell to Riley's Pistol.

"In the way of prompt and deadly shooting nothing in all the red calendar of homicide in the far west beats the record of the gambler Riley, at Newton, Kan., made one night in 1871," said C. B. Durers of Topeka. "The Atchison railroad had been built to that point during the year, and a flourishing town had grown up around the terminus, to which the Texas cattle drives that had been going to Abilene now came. With the gamblers, cowboys and railroad men that thronged the streets it was a very lively sort of town, where dance halls and gambling places were in full blast, and pistol shooting often was heard by day and night. It was at that time that Boot cemetery got its start, and its list of occupants who had met violent death numbered 30 before the town got quieted down.

"On the night in question the Texas cattle drives were in for shipment, and the cowboys were celebrating. Some of the Texans had a grudge against the officers of the town, and so they came in that night prepared for trouble, and they set about making it straightway. They killed the city marshal, the deputy marshal and another man early in the evening. Later they poured into Pinkham's dance hall to the number of 25 or 30. The three men already killed were not enough to satisfy them, and they wanted more. Upon a bench at the side of the room a man was sitting with a girl on his knee. One of the cowboys walked up to him, slapped him on the shoulder and said:

"'I'll teach you to hold my girl in your lap,' and shot him dead.

"Riley was in the dance hall, and the man just killed was a particular friend of his. Without a word Riley stepped back to the big double doors in the front of the saloon and closed them. Placing his back against the doors, he drew a pair of revolvers and fell to shooting, one man against the crowd. Men tumbled left and right, and shots rang out all over the room in response to the drum roll cracking of Riley's pistols. Shots perforated and splintered the door all about him, but he stood there firing until his pistols were emptied. Behind the bar which ran along one side of the room he knew where the armory was kept ready for instant use. Leaping over the counter, he instantly caught up a revolver that lay on a shelf beneath and kept on with his firing. Before he had emptied the pistol that he found behind the bar the men inside had forced the front doors open, those that could rushed out, and Riley shot his last man in the middle of the street. When it came to counting up losses, it was discovered there were 13 dead men in the town due to that night's shooting, of whom nine cowboys had fallen to Riley's hand. How many wounded ones rode or were carried away by their comrades to the cattle could only be guessed at.

"There was one curious incident of this fight not generally known. Riley, it was supposed, was unhurt in the shooting. A doctor hastily summoned to the scene came to the side of a cowboy who was dying.

"'How is it, doc?' asked the wounded man. 'Am I going to pull through?'

"The doctor shook his head. 'I'm sorry, my poor fellow, but I cannot give you any hope.'

"'How about the man who shot me,' said the cowboy. 'Is he dead?'

"'No,' answered the doctor. 'He was not even wounded.'

"'I know better than that,' said the cowboy. 'I know he was hit. I was right by the side of him when he shot me, and before I fell I fired and hit him under the arm. You examine him and you'll find that he's wounded there.'

"When the doctor got round to Riley, he examined him, and, sure enough, found that he had received a flesh wound under his arm, which in the excitement of fighting he had not noticed. Riley left the town after the inquest and didn't appear there again. No effort seems to have been made to arrest or bring him to trial for an act that was generally held to be justifiable and praiseworthy.

"'I got a message some time afterward from Kansas City saying that Riley was there and asking if I wanted him,' said Major R. H. Spivey of the land department of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, who was mayor of Newton at the time of the killing. 'I sent back word that they were perfectly welcome to keep him there. We had begun to build up a population in Newton and didn't need him.'"—New York Sun Likely Enough.

Mistress—What? Dinner time, the fire out and the breakfast dishes not yet washed? What have you been doing?

New Girl—Please, mum, I was busy all the morning readin about a fine lady who stabbed her servant girl, mum.

Mistress—Well, mistresses can't stand everything.—New York Weekly.

Hearts Were Not Trumps.

A little fellow who was evidently taking his first lessons in orthography picked up a heart shaped pin from his mother's dressing table recently, and running to her for the purpose of displaying his talent said, "That is a h-e-r-t, isn't it, mamma?" "You are a fine speller, Freddie," replied the fond, but ignorant parent. "You should say h-a-r-t." All of which goes to show that it is a good idea for parents to learn how to shoot before they attempt to teach the young idea.—New York Herald.

THE NEW BARMAID.

It was in Maoriland in the sixties—that is, in the days when the diggers dreamed not of prohibition, and when one was much more certain than now to get in a mining town a dram of decent stuff incapable of blowing the cork out.

Plainly, there was something astir. Everybody had on his best. A new barmaid had arrived (there is no hope for the wretches who would rob the diggers of that comfort) at Widow Brown's pub. In twos, threes or sixes the whole place dropped in four or five times an hour to have "another gaze."

She was the sole topic of conversation. "Ain't she clean?" said one. "That wur a slashing feed we had today," said another. "Best tucker ever I struck," added a third, with a furtive glance from beneath the rim of a hat that seemed intended as a cover for his face.

By the end of the week the newcomer was no longer a stranger. Everybody knew her. She was a woman of over 30, marvelously preserved. She had never been married, though—well, she had been queen of many gold rushes.

The man who has spent a quarter of a century in the Australian provinces has seen ten civilizations, anyway. There is ground for belief that later civilizations have degenerated.

The woman of today is not the cook of the past. There is an air of cindered chops about the present hapless creature. Today too many matrons want their daughters to play "the planner." Too many mothers wash the clothes and get the languid girls to bring them in. Thus the man passing by the clothes line is deceived. Therefore our civilization is comparable to a needle which has been too finely sharpened and too much reduced at the sides. This reduction has been visible throughout Australia for 20 years past.

Now, the consequences of this fatal relapse of woman are manifold and terrible. The bad cook is only a slow murderess.

But there was grit in our barmaid. She was none of these. She could produce a meal worthy of man, and digging breeds men. She was tidy to a hair. She was trim as a snug vessel, and she was handsome.

Of course the whole district became infatuated with her. Diggers go that way. They sit in the solitude of their huts and dream of the ideal in the guise of the handiest flesh and blood substitute. In the night it is their companion. In this way do single miners love a million times—it is their polygamy. They love with a distant, worshipful love—"the desire of the moth for the star."

They are pleased if she visits their claim and watches the water flying from the sluicing nozzle. They show her the rainbow under the jet. They bring her nuggets. And if she speaks to them, be it only a "Good day!" they fancy that their affection is making headway and rejoice in every fiber of their being.

Out of her admirers the charmer reduced the cluster to two, and between these the contest was terrible. They hung about the place like unto dogs chained. She ran against one or the other, or both each minute. She spoke to them singly or in a pair 40 odd times an hour. It was evident to the boys that something was looming up ahead.

The aspirants were named Louis and Charles, both Frenchmen and over 40. The worst of a Frenchman is that France hangs like a plumb bob before his nose, and everything has to be regarded across France. But the regard here was not of conceit—it was fury.

One night there was a rumor that Charles had struck a "pile" in his claim. People began to bet whether our ideal would be influenced by the find. It was freely asserted that night would see it decided.

I was hot and restless during the evening, and I went down to the sea beach, two miles distant. I sat on a log and smoked and let the sweet hum of the Pacific eat its way into my ears. This content of reverie surpasses the pleasure of books, and is the nearest approach to the pleasure of gratified love which a mind undistorted can discover on this crude planet.

Suddenly I saw a figure streaming out toward the sea. It was Louis.

"Don't be a fool!" I said, as I locked my arm in his and led him away. He had been rejected. Additional confirmation was granted when the pair were seen walking out for a stroll on the morrow.

They were married. I didn't see the wedding (a most informal transaction), as I had all my work cut out to guard Louis. May I never again take such a contract!

Every wedding involves a question of sentiment. One morning the husband went to cut wood. He returned suddenly and took a silent peep into his apartments. Then he stole off on tiptoe for his gun. That is the other end of the sentiment. When he returned, the room was empty; the birds had fled.

And because he couldn't find anybody to shoot he pined away and grew silly. When I left, the abandoned one had made his claim over to a stranger.

From that day the story is a blank. The denouement is unknown. But wherever she is I swear the scones in the cupboard will be capital. As said before, she was a good cook. Some have thought that cookery is a form of virtue. They erred. Virtue is a form of cookery.—Sydney Bulletin.

How the Old Piano Tuners Escaped.

I had my piano tuned yesterday by an old man with long white whiskers. He looked like the same old fellow I met in a small Pennsylvania town some years ago, engaged in the same business. When he had finished the job, I thought I would touch him up a trifle. Looking quizzically at him, I said, "I won't strike a note on it for two hours." He seemed surprised and asked, "Why?"

"The old story," I said. "Do you mean to say you never heard it?"

"Well, I guess you've got me. Where did you learn that trick? It was invented by the old time tuners who traveled through the country picking up a job here and there. Most of them tuned very badly. They left a piano in worse shape than they found it and were always in danger of a thrashing. They started that idea about letting the instrument alone two hours after tuning so that they would have time to get out of town before discovery. I confess that I did give similar advice in those days and generally drove pretty fast when I left a house. But you need not be afraid now. I am not going to leave New York for several days."—New York Press.

Evidences of Strength.

Bellefield—Young Halfback gets his athletic tastes very legitimately. He comes from a very athletic family.

Bloomfield—Is that so?

Bellefield—Yes. His father once held up a train. He had an aunt who did some shoplifting, and an uncle who was quite noted for jumping board bills.—Cincinnati Gazette.

He Could Wait.

"Just a year ago today," he said to the man beside him on the rear platform of a Michigan avenue car, "you and I were riding down the avenue the same as now."

"Yes?" was the neutral reply.

"On that occasion I asked you a question. I asked you if you chewed tobacco."

"I think you did."

"But you did not answer me."

"No. I always wait exactly a year before answering such a question. The year is up. I will now answer that I do chew tobacco. Have a chew with me?"

"No, sir."

"Quit using the weed?"

"No, but when I meet such a man as you, I always wait two years before taking a chew of his tobacco. Thanks. See you later, just one year later."—Detroit Free Press.

Gold Remains Quiet.

Cumso—I suppose the adage which says money talks applies only to silver and paper money.

Fangle—What makes you suppose that?

Cumso—Because we know that silence is golden, and then we hear a good deal about the gold reserve.—Harlem Life.

A Sudden Change.

The giving way of summer to winter is often very quickly done, and unfortunately the giving way of the human beings by this change is often as sudden and sad. But when you stop to think, why should it not be so? The pores of the skin are open, the muscles are relaxed, the thermometer falls, the winds blow, the pores are closed and the body becomes chilled, and then you are sick. Now do you ever stop to think that all this work is thrown back upon—what? The kidneys, nothing else. When the skin does not throw off the waste of the body by perspiration, the kidneys must do it, and too often they cannot stand the sudden strain.

You know, if you are well read and in touch with the times, that there is but one cure for any kidney difficulty, but one means of preserving the kidneys in health, and that is Warner's Safe Cure. So wonderful have been its results, so much has it accomplished, that physicians, scientists and the best informed people, both men and women throughout the world have admitted it. If you are suffering from any form of chill, pains in the muscles, lack of appetite, headache, or many ills which come at this special season, you should not delay a moment, and your are foolish if you continue to suffer when you can so readily obtain relief.

OVER THE DEAD CENTER.

A New York Incident of the Financial Squeeze of 1893.

Right in the midst of the panic of 1893 a financier and a great power in the world of trade whose name is known all over this country and Europe went to a friend and said, "I am so near ruin as this—that while I have millions in securities I have scarcely $1,000 in cash and must have $25,000 today, or I am done for."

He had thrown himself languidly into a chair as though almost ready to give up the battle. He knew well enough what the announcement of his failure meant for the commercial world. It probably would have pulled down a score or more of important institutions and very likely would have precipitated general disaster. He had been everywhere with securities in his pocket valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars pronounced good then, but he was told in every place, "Your securities are good, but we cannot lend money now." His position was like that of the castaway upon the ocean with "water, water everywhere, nor any drop to drink." His securities at their normal value were probably worth as much as $10,000,000, perhaps more, but it was impossible for him to borrow $10 upon them.

The friend to whom he went knew as well as he what his failure involved; knew that he was worth at least $10,000,000 in securities, although he could not command the $25,000 which stood between him and the protesting of his paper.

The friend said: "Well, I'll try to help you. What collateral have you got?" He took from his pocket securities which before the panic would have commanded easily $50,000 and said, "I can offer these."

"They are good," said the friend, "nothing better. Let me see what I can do."

He went out to a financial institution of which he had long been a customer, and he said to the officers: "I want to borrow $25,000 on this collateral, which is worth $50,000. I will guarantee the paper, provided I have recourse to the collateral in case it is not paid."

"But," said the bank officers, "we can't lend that. The collateral is good enough, but we can't even lend on government bonds. Nobody is lending. Everybody is trying to borrow."

"Well," said the friend, "then I will submit a proposition to you. If you will lend the money on this collateral, it will earn 6 per cent for you. If you will not lend it, then I will draw my own check upon this concern for $25,000, and I will keep the collateral myself. Now, it is for you to say whether for the $25,000 that you've got to part with you will take security and 6 per cent interest, or whether you will pay it out and get nothing for it, as you must do if I check it out."

Of course the officers, confronted with such an alternative, could only decide to loan the money, and it was the biggest loan that was made that day or perhaps for several days before or afterward—at least the biggest new loan.

The friend went back to the capitalist and said, "The $25,000 is at your command." When the capitalist heard this, he became a new man. All the energy characteristic of him returned. Said he, "That will carry me over the dead center, for I am satisfied that before any of my other obligations mature it will be possible to borrow money on such securities as I possess," and that proved to be the case.

The capitalist is now esteemed to be worth not far from $20,000,000, and he can borrow upon his securities millions of money with perfect ease. He does not like to think of the day in 1893 when $25,000 stood between him and ruin.—Holland in Philadelphia Press.

Explaining a Joke.

Two girls were riding in a Pittsburg cable car, and one of them was reading a comic paper.

"I don't see the point to this joke," said the reader as she displayed to her companion a picture. It represented a man in his shirt sleeves with a tiny baby on his lap and was labeled "The New Woman."

The other girl was thoughtful for a few moments, and then she said: "Oh, that's plain enough. The baby is a girl, and of course it's quite new. Don't you see?"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

—BUT—

The Great And Only

Encyclopædia

Britannica.

Complete in 25 Volumes

The Encyclopædia Britannica is not only a complete compendium of all knowledge, but it is a dictionary of biography, a record of inventions, a history of discoveries, a calendar of dates, a registry of events, a glossary of technical and scientific terms, a collection of mathematical, chemical, and mechanical formulas, a handbook of law, a medical guide.

Best Atlas in the World.

The most thorough and reliable key to business knowledge, a manual of games, sports and amusements, a theranus of statistics, a history of all countries and people, a storehouse of criticism, a treasury of curious learning, a vade mecum for the household and farm, as for the office and library, a repertory of useful information. If the professional or the business man should undertake to put upon his library shelves the special treaties, which would cover as wide a range of topics as those gathered in the Britannica, relating to his own pursuits, his purchases would extend over scores of volumes, some of them rare and expensive, and many of them not brought down to date.

Of all the works of reference now in the market, the Encyclopædia Britannica is not only the most comprehensive, but by far the cheapest, even at

The STAR will for a short time furnish this great work in Cloth binding at $1.60 per volume; in full sheep at $2.20 per volume, and will deliver the whole set upon payment of $5 cash, giving you long time to pay the balance.

The purchase of any Encyclopædia short of the best is not only bad judgment, but worse economy. The STAR will furnish you this, the greatest literary production of the century, at one-third the former price and on terms so accommodating that none need deny themselves the great advantage of owning this mine of information. Remember that the present is the only time we can call our own. We reserve the privilege of withdrawing this offer at any time. It is made as a favor to the STAR'S readers, and for the purpose of increasing our circulation. You are invited to call and examine the books, or send us your address for further particulars. Out of town subscribers can order by mail, and the books will be sent prepaid.

The Original Price of $8 Per Volume.

Heretofore this work could be obtained only at a great cost—from $125 to $200. It is now, for the first time, placed within reach of the masses. A saving of only 15 cents a day gives you this never-failing fountain of knowledge. Is it not worth such a slight effort to obtain it?

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 26, 1895

SPOTS AND FUTURES

New York Sun's Review of the Cotton Market—Total Net Receipts at the Ports.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, October 25.—Total net receipts at the ports since September 1st, 1895: Galveston 297,018; New Orleans 415,096; Mobile 58,027; Savannah 259,880; Charleston 107,975; Wilmington 64,160; Norfolk 59,990; Baltimore 2,662; New York 11,428; Boston 11,731; Newport News 1,179; Philadelphia 9,155; West Point 82,099; Brunswick 3,545; Texas City 5,747; Port Royal 8,450. Total 1,348,631.

The Sun says: Cotton rose twenty-three to twenty seven points, the distant months showing the greatest strength, closing firm with sales of 815,000 bales. Liverpool advanced three and one-half to four and one-half points, then reacted and closed quiet and steady at a net rise of one and one-half to two and one-half points. Spot sales were 10,000 bales and prices 1-32d higher. New Orleans advanced sixteen to nineteen points. Exports from the ports were very large. The ports received 37,018 bales, including "various" against 43,418 last Friday and 60,931 last year; total for week 291,240 bales against 272,497 last week and 389,258 last year. Spot cotton advanced 1-16c here, with sales of 507 bales for spinning. In Manchester yarns were quiet and steady and small inquiry for cloths. The Liverpool sales for the week were 64,000 bales, including 58,000 American, against 94,000 last year, of which 88,000 were American; stock 887,000 bales, including 778,000 American, against 679,000 last year, of which 543,000 were American. New Orleans expects to-morrow 18,000 to 20,000 bales. Bulls contend that at the ratio of last year's exports for the remainder of the season the total exports this season will foot up 4,000,000 bales.

To day's features: The bullish factors were an advance in Liverpool; a rumor that Neill Bros. are about to estimate the crop at 6,350,000 to 6,500,000 bales; materially diminished offerings from the South; light receipts at the ports and at some of the Texas interior points, and considerable buying, partly new, by operators who are now taking the distant months, a fact which is reflected in the conspicuous strength of the distant deliveries. The best prices of the day were made toward the close. Some Wall street houses are talking very favorably of cotton as a purchase, believing that the worst of the weak long liquidation is over.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Wheat, Corn and Oats Closed Lower—A Further Decline in Prices of Pork Products.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, October 25.—Either a bulge or a break in wheat would be a source of gratification to the commission men if the dullness and inactivity would come to an end. December wheat opened from 61c to 61½c, sold between 61¼@61¾c and 60⅝@60¾c, closing at 60¾@60⅞c—¾c under yesterday. Cash wheat was steady.

May corn opened at 29⅜c, sold at 29⅝c, closing at 29¾, a shade over yesterday. Cash corn was firm.

May oats closed ⅛c lower than yesterday. Cash oats were steady.

Provisions—Holders of products were disposed to sell all day to-day, and there was also an inclination on the part of shorts to press offerings. Hogs were again lower, and the demoralized condition of affairs at the yards seems to be the key to the situation in product. January pork closed 15c lower; January lard 5c lower, and January ribs 7½c lower.

THE DROUGHT IN OHIO.

Water Selling at Twenty-five to Forty Cents Per Barrel—Tobacco Crop a Failure.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PORTSMOUTH, OHIO, Oct. 25.—The continued drought has caused serious loss throughout Scioto and adjoining counties. The tobacco crop is almost a total failure, and Fall wheat is in bad shape, a great deal of it having been killed after sprouting. Water sells at twenty five cents per barrel at West Union and Weliston and forty cents at Winchester. Cattle are being sold at the first price offered, owing to scarcity of feed, as the hay and corn crops have been an almost total failure in many localities.

RUSSIA AND CHINA.

A TREATY CONCLUDED THAT DISTURBS GREAT BRITAIN.

English Newspapers Assume That It Means Partition of China and War With Russia Would be Less Disastrous.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a long article commenting upon the dispatch published in the Times from its Hong Kong correspondent, stating that a treaty was recently concluded between Russia and China, by the terms of which Russia obtains the right of anchorage for her fleet at Port Arthur, the right to construct and operate railways and other advantages of great commercial value. The Gazette assumes that this practically means that Russia has annexed China. Japan, the paper says, will certainly refuse to leave Port Arthur and England will oppose it to the death. The treaty also means the presence of Russian warships off Vancouver and Sydney, and England must act vigorously and immediately both by means of diplomacy and by getting her fleets ready for sea.

The Globe in an article on the same subject says: "Neither England, the United States, Japan nor Germany, will sanction a partition of China which would virtually render the Pacific ocean a Franco-Russian lake, and seal the markets of China against their commerce."

The St. James Gazette says: "It is obvious that if Russia has squeezed China into such an agreement we must intervene. War with Russia, with all its risks and possibilities, would be less disastrous than to allow her without striking a blow to get such a grip on China."

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a dispatch from St. Petersburg saying that the Novoe Vremyas' statement as to the gravity of the situation in Corea and the movements of the Russian fleet is much exaggerated. The dispatch adds that the augmenting of the Russian Pacific squadron was arranged before the recent outbreak of disorder in Seoul.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

C. L. Dibrell, An Official of the Southern Express Company at Chattanooga.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 25.—C. L. Dibrell, auditor of the money department in the general offices of the Southern Express Company and known to Express people throughout the South, was found in a sitting posture in his coal house today with a pistol gripped tightly in his right hand and blood flowing from his left temple, where the ball passed out, forming in pools on the floor. The ball had done its work instantaneously and the family physician who was in the house waiting on the suicide's invalid wife could render no assistance. Dibrell has for months suffered intense pains in the head from neuralgia of the fifth nerve, and in a moment of such torture it is believed that he resorted to his desperate remedy. Col. Dibrell was a member of an old Virginia family, and related to the late Congressman from Tennessee, Gen. Dibrell, while Mrs. Dibrell comes from one of the best families in the South. She was Miss Sallie Russell, of Augusta, Ga.; one of her sisters being Mrs. E. W. Cole, wife of the ex-president of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad. Deceased had been in the employ of the Express Company for ten years, and when the offices of the Eastern division were in Augusta he was auditor. Many attribute his deed to despondency over the loss of his position, but this is unfounded, as he was only relieved a few days since, months after being incapacitated for his duties. Mrs. Dibrell is in a critical condition.

COOCHEE-COOCHEE.

The Georgia Legislature Shocked by the Dance Given on the Midway at the Exposition.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, October 25.—The Georgia Legislature is down on the Coochee-Coochee dance. Some of the legislators went on the Midway President's day and were shocked by the danse du ventre, given in the streets of Cairo. Mr. Jones, of Dougherty county, offered a bill in the House this morning to prohibit the muscle dance, and the bill was passed by an almost unanimous vote. Mr. Jones made a strong speech, in which he urged that the bill be passed and declaring that the present exhibitions at the Exposition were indecent and should not be tolerated. He was followed by Mr. Fletcher Johnson, of Hall, who spoke against the bill. He declared that it was none of the Legislature's business, and if a man wanted to go to the devil by the Coochee-Coochee dance route it was none of the Legislature's business. The vote was 127 for the bill to 7 against it. It will not go into effect until after the Exposition is over.

BETWEEN SEASONS.

Bradstreets' Report of the State of Trade.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, October 25.—Bradstreets' to-morrow will say: The volume of general trade for two weeks has hardly reached expectations and now assumes the character of between seasons. Wholesale dealers in seasonable staples, such as dry goods, clothing, hats and shoes report only a fairly active business, exceptions being at such points as New York, Baltimore, Chicago, Kansas City and Duluth.

The total number of failures throughout the United States during the week is 259, against 289 for the previous week and 221, 329 and 220 for the corresponding weeks in 1894, 1893 and 1892.

At the South, the reaction in the cotton market has made itself felt, dealers at Texas distributing points reporting a temporary check in the demand. This is true, also, at Nashville, Jacksonville, Augusta and Savannah. But at many other points throughout the South collections continue good and general trade satisfactory.

A FAST SCHEDULE

To be Run on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, October 25.—The fastest train ever run in the world, taking distance into consideration, will begin making its daily trips over the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad on Tuesday evening, October 29. It will leave Chicago at 6 p m and will reach Los Angeles, California on Friday at 6 p m., making the run of 2,265 miles in 74 hours, allowing for the difference in time. Previous to this the fastest regular long distance train in the world was the California Limited, of the Chicago & Northwestern and Union Pacific systems which make the run from Chicago to San Francisco, 2,355 miles, in 85 hours and fifteen minutes. Its average rate of speed for the entire distance was 27.6 miles an hour, while the average speed of the Santa Fe train will be 30.4 miles an hour for the entire distance.

TROUBLE IN GEORGIA.

RESULT OF THE MURDER OF SHERIFF BROOKER.

The Zeigler Family Entrenched at Their Homestead and Defying Arrest—Their Following Said to Number Two Hundred Men.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SAVANNAH, October 25.—The situation in Screvin county, Ga, as the result of the murder of Sheriff Brooker by the Zeigler brothers, according to to-night's reports, is most serious and really remarkable for a civilized community.

The Zeiglers are entrenched at their homestead, about five miles south of Sylvania, and swear that they will not be taken alive. The Zeiglers are Populists and the district is strictly a Populist one. They have besides a number of relatives and family connections living in the country right around them, all of whom have espoused their cause and are sworn to stand by them to the death. A dozen or more of the close friends and relatives of the Zeiglers remain in their house or in the immediate neighborhood, it is said, and all are armed to the teeth. The house, it is said, is a perfect arsenal of shot guns, Winchester rifles and revolvers. It occupies a commanding position and the garrison inside could do terrible execution against any party which attempted to invade their stronghold.

When old man Solomon Zeigler was killed by Brooker in a quarrel over politics several months ago, it is said that the Zeiglers determined on revenge, and counseled with their friends and relatives, who agreed to stand by them. There is a very large farm bell in the yard, and it was agreed that this bell should not be rung except as a warning of danger, and a signal for the Zeiglers and their followers to gather together to resist an attack.

The bell has not been rung since old man Zeigler's death. The Zeigler following is said to number two hundred men who will respond to the ringing of the bell.

CORBETT-FITZSIMMONS.

The Champion Furious—Will Meet Bob Under Any Circumstances.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HOT SPRINGS, Oct. 25.—Corbett this afternoon telegraphed to Phil. Dwyer and others in New York to forward the stake money at once. He stated in the telegraph that he was determined to remain in Hot Springs until November 1st and see the matter out, This puts a new aspect on affairs and it is now believed that Corbett has made up his mind to meet Fitzsimmons under any circumstances. The champion was furious over the receipt of a telegram from Martin Julian, in which the latter stated that if Corbett did not remain in Hot Springs and meet Fitzsimmons, he (Julian) would proclaim him a coward and a cur. Joe Vendig this morning wired Dan Stuart to secure an option on a large circus tent and stated that matters would be materially changed within a day or two.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Oct. 25.—Rev. James Thomas, formerly pastor of a church here and now of Little Rock, is in the city. He says that he was in Gov. Clark's private office just before the Supreme Court rendered its decision and that the Governor showed him a proclamation which he had prepared, calling a special session of the Legislature in the event that the law was decided in favor of the fighters. Mr. Thomas also said that he was shown a bill drawn up by the chief executive of the State abolishing the office of Chancellor Leatherman.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Oct. 25.—Fitzsimmons continues his daily training here, but the past few days he has not been laborign as hard as he did two weeks ago. He thinks there is no chance now to meet Corbett in the ring. He informed a reporter that the failure to pull a fight off is the greatest disappointment of his life, but he says he has the consolation of knowing it is no fault of his. Julian will return to-night. Fitzsimmons will probably leave here Wednesday.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., October 25.—The outlook for a meeting of some kind between Corbett and Fitzsimmons is about as favorable to-night as at any time since the original proposition to bring off the mill was made by the local citizens' committee to the representatives of the two fighters. The affair will not be under the auspices of the Florida Athletic Club and the purse will have dwindled from $41,000 to a fourth of that sum.

A long time after midnight several wagon loads of lumber will be seen moving north on Central avenue, and visitors to-morrow in the neighborhood of Whittington Park may watch the operation of constructing a twenty-four foot ring. The odds are heavy that in this arena Corbett and Fitzsimmons will have met and decided the championship before the first Sabbath of November has dawned.

COTTON MILL MEN.

Improvement in Baling the Leading Theme at Yesterday's Session—A Cylindrical Bale Strongly Advocated.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

ATLANTA, Oct. 25.—The New England cotton manufacturers say that the method of packing cotton must be reformed. Improvement in baling was the leading theme at to-day's session of the manufacturers. Several able papers were read on the subject. W. E. Anderson, of Little Rock, Ark., advocated a cylindrical bale. A paper by President D. C. Ball, of the St. Louis Cotton Exchange, on the same subject, was read.

The cylindrical bale is coming into use in Texas, which leads in improved packing. The present method was pronounced by several speakers to be behind the time, crude and injurious to the strength of the fibre. Jerome Hill, of St. Louis, spoke on baling and compressing, endorsing the cylindrical bale and cotton ginners' compress system.

Mr. Edmunds declared that no one can question the South's great future in cotton manufacturing, but this, said he, does not necessarily involve a decrease in manufacturing by New England or Great Britain.

A party of fifty from the Association will go down to-morrow on a special train to Columbus, Ga., to see the new cotton mills there. The ladies from New England were given a reception this afternoon by Mrs. E. C. Peters and to-night the gentlemen were entertained at dinner by the Georgia Manufacturing Association.

All the messengers in the employ of the American Express Company have been furnished an outfit of Winchester rifles and revolvers, to resist train robbers The company also advises its men to become proficient in rifle and revolver practice and hints that in the near future prizes will be awarded to the most proficient marksmen.

The Virginia Military Institute defeated the Agricultural and Mechanical College of North Carolina in a football contest by 42 to 6 at Atlanta, Ga., yesterday.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

SOUTHERN RAILWAYS.

Good Effect of the Formation of the Freight Association—Encouraging Outlook.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—President Sam Spencer, of the Southern Railway, said to-day: "The successful formation of the Southern States Freight Association and the putting of the agreement into practical operation, have had a steadying effect on rates and created confidence which has not existed in the South for two or three years. I now understand that the Florida Central & Peninsula railroad will at once become a member of the Association. It has not been a member for some years. This will bring into the Association the Florida lines of the Plant system, which have heretofore been outside of it on account of the non-membership of the Florida Central & Peninsula railroad. All this materially strengthens the Association and increases confidence. If rates are well maintained as now expected, the small cotton crop as compared with last year will not injuriously affect the earnings of Southern railways. This is particularly true of the lines east of the Mississippi. The large grain crops of the South and the good prices for cotton will give the farmer more money than last year. This will be the means of increasing the miscellaneous traffic. The revival of manufacturing industries promises also to far more than compensate for any possible shortage in cotton. This shortage has apparently been much exaggerated. All in all, the outlook for the Autumn and Winter railroads is encouraging."

FIRE IN AUGUSTA, GA.

A Lumber Mill and Forty-four Houses Burned—Several Hundred People Homeless—Loss $75,000.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

AUGUSTA, GA., Oct. 25.—One of the largest fires in the history of Augusta (so far as extent of territory) visited the city this afternoon. It started in the stables of the lumber and planing mill of Jesse Thompson & Co. and consumed this plant in a few minutes. It was located on the outskirts of the city and on one side was a great stretch of small frame houses. A very high wind was blowing in the direction of these houses, and great burning embers were carried high in the air, setting fire to houses two and three blocks away, while those much nearer temporarily escaped destruction. They were doomed, however, for the wind was so fierce and the neighborhood so inflammable that it was at no time under control of the fire department, and the fire was not extinguished until it had spent itself. The embers of forty-four houses are all that remain in the burned district, which stretches along several squares. Several hundred people are homeless. The total value of the property destroyed is fully $75,000, on which the insurance is only about $35,000 or $30,000.

THE SUFFRAGE PROBLEM

Under Consideration in South Carolina's Constitutional Convention.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

COLUMBIA, October 25.—At last the Constitutional Convention has come to the great suffrage problem, and the debate has been opened on the article on the suffrage, submitted by Senator Tillman's committee. When the article had been read, at 1.30 p. m., ex-Congressman Miller, the colored member, took the floor and moved to strike out the whole thing. He then began an elaborate speech in behalf of the negroes. He made an able argument on his side and presented the claims of his race in a strong light.

After four days' debate the article on new counties and county government was adopted and clinched. The township government scheme was adopted in the following shape: "Each of the several townships of this State, with names and boundaries as now established by law, shall constitute a body, politic and corporate, but this shall not prevent the General Assembly from organizing other townships or changing the boundaries of those already established, and the General Assembly may provide such system of township government as they shall think proper."

Sheriff Barnes, of Atlanta, has increased his reward for the arrest of the condemned murderer Will Myers to $1,000. This makes the total reward outstanding $1,500. Many think that he is hid away in the city somewhere.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Here's a Whole Family.

Husband, Wife and Children Made Well by Paine's Celery Compound.

The pre-eminence of Paine's celery compound over all other remedies could not be better illustrated than in the case of the Turney family, of St. Anthony, Iowa.

Mrs. Turney had recovered her health by the use of Paine's celery compound.

She had suffered from a variety of ills, all due to a nervous system improperly nourished.

As frequently happens the entire family, overcome perhaps by anxiety and care, began to feel "run down" and to suffer with the hardest disease in the world to diagnosis—the trouble they have when they say: "Doctor, I don't feel well."

The advice of their physicians to use Paine's celery compound, the one known remedy that restores lost nervous energy, creates an appetite, purifies the blood and builds up the strength of the entire system, was followed. Mrs. Turney, in a letter to Wells & Richardson Co., who prepare the remedy, soon wrote as follows:

"My husband and three children were as greatly benefited by the use of Paine's celery compound as I was after an unusually hard seige of the grip, with variations of the disease. We regard the compound as a most remarkable remedy."

As the winter comes on many people will begin to suffer from debility, and lack of rallying powers after a slight chill or cold.

Their real trouble is a run-down condition of the nerves and blood, and Paine's celery compound, as in the case of Mrs. Turney and her family, will make them well again.

Rheumatism and neuralgia, too, grow more dangerous and more painful with cold weather.

This increased pain points to increased activity of these disorders.

There is positive danger in allowing the system to meet the perils of winter handicapped by rheumatism and neuralgia, or any disease that comes from poor blood and bad nerves.

There is the same certainty of getting rid of these two diseases that there is of a complete recovery from sleeplessness, nervous weakness, hysteria, or any other result of impoverished nerves and blood. Physicians to-day get rid of rheumatism and neuralgia as they do sleeplessness, melancholia and nervous dyspepsia by building up the system and supporting its delicate nerve parts with Paine's celery compound.

Paine's celery compound restores vitality to tired nerves; it feeds every tissue of the body when unusual waste has reduced the weight and strength of the body, as is frequently the case at the close of the heated season. It gives new appetite, and keeps every part of the body, nerves and blood so well nourished that the nervous, exhausted, tired, "run down" feeling from worry and hard work soon disappears. Try it.

FREIGHT TRAIN BURNED.

Two Train Men Injured—Believed to be the Work of Incendiaries.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SAVANNAH, GA., Oct. 25.—Fourteen cars of a South-bound local freight train on the Florida Central & Peninsula Railroad went through a burning trestle between Savannah junction and Savannah river at midnight last night and were burned with the trestle. The train consisted of twenty-five cars. The engine and part of the train ran over the trestle before it was seen that it was on fire. The middle of the train went down in a heap, filling the narrow ravine beneath the trestle and burned with it. No one was killed. Two trainmen were slightly injured. The railroad officials believe that the fire was the work of incendiaries and detectives were put on the case at once.

NEW HATS AND FURNISHINGS.

It would be pure folly and a waste of money to pay the exorbitant prices that you are called upon to put up for a hat, simply because you buy from an exclusive hatter. We show an immense assortment of all the newest shapes and shades in Derbys and Alpines, at prices that are right and which are from 25 per cent. to 33⅓ per cent. below others.
